

Summary – My Expense Manager

This summary will detail some of the problems and/or challenges I have encountered in the process of developing My Expense Manager App.

Although it was fun, yet challenging task I have learned a lot in terms of developing an application with databases.

At some point, my emulator was not working so it required me to do a lot of 'debugging' and trying to figure what the main cause might be, I eventually got it to work, although it is still giving me some problems.

I happened to have had difficulties in implementing a graph as well as the search button to the database, I plan on doing more research on this and hope to get it right eventually.
